Trapani and its splendid seaside, food and history. A key strength of the two haemodialysis units of Valderice and Alcamo is the fact that they are based in the heart of a major tourist area. They are strategically located in two towns of the Trapani province, very close to the most popular tourist attractions of the province's hinterland.

Trapani and its surroundings are popular with tourists all year round and offer a wide selection of different holiday types to suit different preferences and interests, combining cultural and group entertainment and a climate which is pleasant throughout the year.

Here are a few of the most popular towns on the global scale: ERICE: a medieval hillside town now hosting the Majorana Centre for Scientific Culture; SEGESTA: the most important centre founded by the Elymians and one of the most interesting sites of indigenous civilizations in Sicily; MOZIA: the town where the largest Phoenician-Punic settlement of the whole Mediterranean basin is preserved; SCOPELLO: popular with its picturesque faraglioni (coastal rock formations) and crystal-clear waters; ZINGARO natural reserve: a paradise for tourists with a passion for Mediterranean plant life and wildlife; AEGADIAN ISLANDS (Favignana, Marettimo, Levanzo) and PANTELLERIA: called the 'Four pearls in a crystal ocean' due to the spectacular ocean floors and marvellous natural grottos. SELINUNTE and its ruins: the site where eight large temples, a sanctuary and many more buildings dating back to 600 BC were built. In addition, the mythical Valley of the Temples of AGRIGENTO can be reached in just two hours by motorway from Trapani.
